

Stripe checkout with a webhook you can trust

A Node and Express store for Fieldnote, a made up notes product, wired to Stripe in test mode end to end.

The problem

A small product business wants one-time and recurring sales, self-serve billing, and order records that always match what Stripe charged.

What I built

- Checkout for a $29 guide and a Pro plan at $9 a month or $90 a year, with discount codes
- Order summary that recalculates as the plan or code changes, and refuses unknown codes
- Signed webhook that writes paid, active, renewed or canceled invoice rows
- One receipt email per payment, never two for a retried event
- Invoices page with monthly recurring revenue, plus empty and error states

Measured results

14/14

end to end checks pass against stripe-mock, Stripe's official API mock

15% off

FIELD15 takes $90.00 to $76.50, checked by a test

0 double counts

a bad signature is rejected and a retried event sends no second receipt
